

Carranza's Reply To American Demand Expected Tomorrow

President's Patience In Awaiting Release Limited To Hours--Note Was Delivered Yesterday

FIRST BRIGADE ORDERED TO EL PASO

Washington, June 27.—(By United Press)—President Wilson's patience in awaiting release of American prisoners in Chihuahua City is limited to hours not days. It may be stated that a definite reply from General Carranza relative to his attitude is expected not later than tomorrow night. The state department has been informed the President's demands were delivered to Mexican Minister of Foreign Affairs Aguilar yesterday. It is understood Consul Rodgers in presenting the note to Aguilar suggested that "immediate reply" was imperative. What lies beyond this, officials will not discuss. The program of possible action was taken up by the cabinet today. It is understood that in the event of Carranza's refusal to release the 17 Americans held prisoners, President Wilson will ask congress to permit his use of the armed forces of the United States.

Militia Entraining
Reports to Secretary of War Baker today showed that the movement of the troops southward was progressing. New York, New Jersey, Massachusetts, Vermont, Connecticut and other eastern militia of the National Guard of the United States were entraining and moving south. Massachusetts artillery and field artillery, signal corps and hospital and ambulance corps followed the third infantry regiments—the second, fifth and ninth—that got off last night.

Vermont's first infantry delayed by lack of cars left camp today. Half of the 14th New York infantry was aboard the first train that left Peekskill for the border. The remainder of that regiment followed. The 7th regiment left New York City going to Jersey City and entraining there. New Jersey waved farewells to the last of its guardsmen included in the first call at four o'clock. The 4th and 5th regiments will be brought here next in response to the war department's request for American troops and the 2nd and 3rd regiments will probably follow them at once. Connecticut troops left for the south this morning.

Laredo, June 27.—A troop train of 20 cars loaded with Carranza soldiers arrived at Nuevo Laredo opposite here today. It is estimated there were 1500 men on the train. Arrival of another troop train last night was reported.

Brigade Ordered to El Paso
Mt. Gretna, June 27.—Orders that the first brigade and other organizations that will accompany it be sent direct to El Paso were received here today from the war department via the Adjutant General's department. The troops will leave tonight.

Governor Brumbaugh suddenly came to camp which bears his name today. This is the first visit except for a brief visit on Friday before the camp opened. He made the trip by automobile and was accompanied by Secretary William Bell.

Federalization of Naval Militia
Washington, June 27.—The house naval affairs committee today reported out a bill for the federalization of the naval militia the principal features of which have been endorsed by the administration. It enables the President to draft the men of whom there are about 9,000. The house today by a vote of 119 to 5 disagreed to the action of the senate in eliminating the provision of the Hay resolution to grant $50.00 a month to dependents of militiamen.

Villa Still Alive
Private advices to state department officials today was said to confirm border reports that General Villa is still alive.

New Militia to Be Formed
Harrisburg, June 27.—Neither national or state officials know whether or not a new division of the national guard will be formed. A huge pile of requests from various parts of the state is in the Adjutant General's office. They have not been acknowledged. Officials are of the opinion that a new division will be formed as soon as the present force is sent to the border.

Bryan Doesn't Want Clash
St. Paul, June 27.—"There is probably no person who wants the Mexican matter settled without a clash of arms more than I" said William Jennings Bryan. "But please remember that I said settled," he continued. "If I were asked by the administration to represent it at the border I think I would accept but without our President's sanction I decline to meet with Dr. David Jordan, Frank P. Walsh and three Mexicans to prevent conflict."

San Antonio, June 27.—(By United Press)—General Funston announced today that the 22nd Infantry has been sent from Douglas to Naco, Ariz., in preparation for the reported gathering of Carranza forces. There were three battalions of Infantry and three of field artillery left today for Eagle Pass to protect that section in case of attack.

Villa was today unofficially reported ready to muster his forces into the de facto government and fight the United States if granted amnesty. Villa was stated in these reports to be at the head of a camp in the Paria district. Carranza is reported willing to make Villa general and place him at the head of 5,000 soldiers.

Information from these sources is presumably perfectly reliable. They think in case of war Villa will have charge of a large number of Carranza's forces.

At the meeting last night the committee organized and elected officers for the convention which will be held here August 23 and 24. The following officers were elected: President, J. D. Connelly; vice presidents, C. G. Wilson and J. K. Potter; secretary, S. Boyd Smith; assistant secretary, Ira Jay; treasurer, Ed. B. Chase. The other members of the committee were appointed on the finance committee.

It was decided last night that at least fifteen hundred dollars would be necessary to hold the convention. Plans for raising this amount will be made at the next meeting which will be held next Thursday evening. The fire department cleared five hundred dollars on the carnival which was held some time ago and this amount will be used for defraying some of the expenses of the coming convention. The remaining thousand dollars will be raised by subscription which the finance committee will assist in the near future. Last year Phillipsburg raised by subscription over $2,000 for the convention.

The committee is planning on offering to the public and for the firemen's amusement a large number of high class attractions at the Clearfield Driving park. There will be either an aeroplane or balloon ascension free of charge as the chief attraction. The largest crowd that ever thronged the streets of Clearfield is expected to attend this convention.

MEXICO BLAMES U.S. FOR SEEKING PRETEXT FOR WAR

Statement To Latin-Americans Says Government Wishes To Make Break Inevitable

SENTIMENT VERY OPTIMISTIC

Mexico City, June 27.—(By United Press)—A charge that the United States is attempting to seek a pretext for intervention in Mexico is made by Foreign Secretary Aguilar in a message to the Latin-American republics. "Apparently the American government without adequate reasons for declaring war on Mexico wishes to make hostilities inevitable," wired the foreign secretary. "Mexico should win or succumb with dignity."

An earlier communication sent to the Latin American republics last night declared that the United States is concentrating forces against the Mexican border and that war appears inevitable.

Evacuation of San Geronimo and Bachtina by American troops who moved northward aroused high hopes here today that President Wilson is preparing to withdraw General Pershing's expedition from Mexico. The department gave no explanation of the move. A telegram from General Trevino announcing the evacuation and declaring his purpose of attacking the Americans if they attempted to occupy the town was given out.

Notwithstanding statements in the American newspapers that war is imminent, a strong optimistic sentiment prevails among Mexican leaders here. The newspaper printed reports that belief of South American countries sympathize with the Mexicans in the present crisis. The papers state that South American newspapers all regard the presence of Americans on Mexican soil as a flagrant violation of Mexican sovereignty and believe that the establishment of a border patrol would prevent banditry.

Washington, June 27.—Latin American diplomats in Washington today telegraphed General Carranza urging release of 17 American troops held prisoners at Chihuahua City.

South American diplomats petitioned Carranza today. These diplomats pointed out to Carranza that if he is sincere in his desire to prevent war, and since there is no war yet, captured men are not prisoners of war and cannot be legally held on that score.

M. J. FARRELL NARROWLY ESCAPES SERIOUS INJURY

Bad Spot in Road Causes Car to Swerve, Going Over Bank.

M. J. Farrell, who was a candidate for county commissioner and is well known in this community had a narrow escape from serious injury or death last evening about five o'clock while returning home from Clearfield to his farm below Moose Creek. It appears that there is a bad spot in the road at the approach to the Moose Creek bridge and Mr. Farrell who was driving an auto, hit this spot rather hard which threw the machine sideways onto the bridge. The machine hung suspended over the side of the bridge with the front wheels hanging over. The guard rail on the bridge broke the force of the machine and prevented it from going into the creek.

Subscribers In All Quarters Rally To Support Candidates

Important Two Weeks Period of Big Progress Contest In Full Swing. Contestants Meet With Success

YOU MUST HELP NAME THE WINNERS

Subscribers to the Progress and others who are interested readers of Clearfield county's leading daily paper are earnestly invited and urged to examine carefully the list of the popular and ambitious individuals who are now actively competing for the Overland automobile and many other excellent prizes offered by this paper, in its great voting contest. This list now represents those who are devoting their efforts to the vote and subscription getting that will determine their success in this very popular event. Each and every one of these active candidates are entirely worthy of the support and encouragement of the public and everyone is now urged to select their candidates from the list of active vote getters and hand them their subscriptions, or turn them in at this office, with a request for the votes to be credited to the candidate of their choice. Probably every one of the many active and energetic candidates deserve to win the splendid prizes offered, however only one of them can win that fine Overland touring car, only one can win the splendid $100.00 Baumeister piano and only one can win each of the other prizes offered, so it is up to the good people of this county and the outside territory to determine who will be the fortunate individual to carry off the top prize, who will stand second for the next grand prize and who will be the other winners.

A number of times during the past few days we have emphasized the importance of the contestants making an active and energetic campaign for the subscriptions at this time when they will count for the most votes and we now wish to call this fact to the attention of the subscribers and others who will furnish the subscriptions that will mean victory or defeat for these ambitious persons. It is to be remembered that next week marks the close of the first voting period of the contest and after that time the votes issued on all subscriptions and bonus clubs will be considerably reduced. The voting schedule as announced at the beginning of the contest for the different periods of the contest will remain exactly as announced and no greater offer of votes or other change in the schedule will be made during the contest. This is an absolute guarantee of fairness to contestants and subscribers alike, each candidate knowing exactly what to expect in the way of votes from the effort put into the vote getting and each subscriber knowing exactly how many votes his or her subscription is giving the candidate.

Remember a new one year subscription to the Progress at this time will give a candidate 3,500 votes and after next week the same subscription would be good for only 3,000 votes, a new two year subscription is now good for 8,000 votes and after next week only 6,500, a new five year one now gives 25,000 votes but after next week only 20,000. Subscriptions of other lengths, whether new or old will suffer the same reduction in the number of votes as will the bonus ballots on the $30.00 clubs of new subscription business.

A Serious Contest
While the campaigns of the various contestants in this Big Progress enterprise will be conducted in the friendliest sort of spirit, nevertheless for all contestants who aspire to win the grand prizes, or in fact any of the splendid prizes, the contest will be a very serious affair. The competition will be very keen and the pace will be fast so that it will require some thinking, careful planning and well directed effort. The time of the contest is not long however, and the prizes to be won are worth many times the time and effort that will be required to win any of them. Think of winning a fine new, five passenger touring car by simply devoting some effort to a popular undertaking for a period of only a few short weeks. Surely the winning of this splendid gift is a matter of much moment and only in a slightly less degree is the winning of the other prizes offered by the Progress, for they are well worth working for.

The public should now realize that the efforts of the various contestants and the prizes they win will largely be determined by the amount

Chamber of Commerce Distributing Handsome New Membership Signs

New Signs Will Protect Members Against Any Fake Advertising Solicitor.

The new membership signs of the Chamber of Commerce were shipped by the Whitehead & Hoag Co. of Newark, N. J., on Saturday, June 24, and are now being distributed to members.

They are made of "Crystaloid," a neat and attractive patented material, which will retain its color and brilliancy for years. The membership committee will have charge of their distribution.

In the several prosperous years of its existence, the Chamber of Commerce has not as yet lost a single member among the financial and mercantile institutions of Clearfield, but on the contrary has added a substantial number of new members—a splendid record of community co-operation.

The membership committee comprises the following named men: Geo. L. McCullough, chairman; Frank G. Gililand, A. D. Gould, J. Emmott, Harder, Albert R. Hinkle, Ralph J. in caption.

A meritorious feature of the new signs is the warning each sign conveys to all fake advertising solicitors and other solicitors of unquestionable merit. This protection will be appreciated by all members, as every solicitor must present an endorsement card from the Chamber of Commerce before he will even be given a favorable interview by local merchants and business houses. The endorsement will not recommend subscriptions. It will merely state that the plan endorsed is not a fake scheme and will leave it entirely to the judgment of the member as to whether he shall subscribe or not. Each membership sign carries this

"Bill Fairman" at the St. Louis convention bemoans the fact that the capacity of a Democrat for liquor is diminishing. This would make a cracker-jack point in their platform. Who overlooked it?

That the spirit of '76 is not dead or even drowsy was strongly manifested in Tyrone Sunday morning when the Sheridan Troop left for Mount Gretna, where they will await summons to the border. The Tyrone Shop Band, Bellwood Band, Bellwood Drum Corps, Patriotic organizations and lodges formed a parade easily a mile long, and the greatest crowd ever assembled on the streets of Tyrone turned out to witness the demonstration even though the hour was seven-thirty a. m. and the day Sunday.

Teddy's hat is in the ring again. This time it is in support of Hughes. Many comments will be made on this action and to us it bears out our contentions that Teddy is one of the biggest men in American life today. There is no doubt but that he entertained personal ambitions in aspiring to the Presidential nomination but he did not let the clamoring of the radical Progressives overshadow the paramount call to harmony in the Republican ranks. Teddy could have run independently and been accorded a large measure of support but in the interest of true Republicanism he steps out of his own accord and directs his followers to follow the man who is destined to maintain American sovereignty.

BROTHERHOOD DEMANDS

That the demand of the railroaders for an eight hour day and other concessions is giving much worry to railroad owners is amply proven by the fact that they are spending thousands of dollars just now in publicity in the way of paid advertisements which any newspaper will print as an advertisement but without subscribing one iota to the claims set forth in the advertisement. The question of an eight hour day for railroads is no doubt one of the paramount issues confronting the business of the nation today. Without taking sides in the issue justice demands that we admit on the one side that the life of a railroad man is dangerous, that he is at the beck and call of his employer practically twenty-four hours a day, and that he has many reasons for complaint. The family meal, the evening fireside, and the family altar, which is so dear to most of us are, from the very fact that he can never tell when he is going to be at home for an evening or a meal, denied to him. Association with our family is the most precious thing about life. On the other hand we must admit that the putting in force of an eight hour agreement will mean an upheaval in commercial conditions. Whether it will amount to the direful result prophesied remains to be seen. One thing is sure and that is that a man should have more than eight hours rest before being put to work again after he has worked sixteen hours.

Today's Geographic Study of
The Great European War Zone

The strong offensive developed recently by Russian forces operating against the desperately resisting Turks northwest of Bagdad has awakened a world-wide interest in this whole region of Mesopotamia and particularly in the ruins of the great city of Nineveh, lying just across the Tigris from Mosul and a probable battlefield during the Muscovite assault upon this moslem key to the upper valley of the historic river. Concerning the ancient capital of Assyria and the manner in which its buried secrets have been brought to light within very recent times, Albert T. Cary, professor of Assyriology and Babylonian literature at Yale University, has sent a communication to the National Geographic society, part of which was released today from the society's Washington headquarters, as a war geography bulletin. Prof. Cary writes:

"One of the romances of the last 75 years has been the unearthing of the remains of forgotten empires and the decipherment of their ancient records. A little over a half a century ago what was known concerning the ancient peoples of the nearer East, besides that which is contained in the Old Testament, could be written in a very brief form.

"Israel was then regarded as one of the great nations of antiquity. Abraham belonged to the dawn of civilization. The references to other peoples in the Old Testament had little meaning, for few appreciated the fact that the history of many pre-Israelitish nations had practically faded from the knowledge of man. The pick and spade of the explorer, however, and the patient toil of the decipherer have thrown a flood of light upon the situation; ruin hills of the past have been opened up to the light of day, out of which emerge marvelous revelations in the form of written records and other remains.

"These, although written in languages and scripts the very existence of which was unknown to man for two thousand years or more, are now forced to reveal their story of religion, politics, science and life of not a few of the ancient and forgotten people.

"The researches have resulted in astounding revelations. Israel, instead of being one of the foremost nations of antiquity, is now found to have been a small power which has thrived in the late pre-Christian centuries, and had occupied a comparatively insignificant position among the great nations of the age. In stead of the patriarch Abraham being longed to the beginning of time, it is now found that he occupied a middle chapter of the history of mankind.

Prof. Cary tells of some remarkable documents found in the ruins of Nineveh's "congressional library" where manuscripts were catalogued and arranged according to subject matter, much as in our libraries of today. One clay tablet discloses the fact that "the sweetest story ever told" was with the same naive fervor five thousand years ago as it is today. It is a lover's plaint, thus expressed: "To Bibea, thus says Gimil Marduk; may the gods Shamash and Marduk permit thee to live forever for my sake. I write to inquire concerning thy health. Tell me how thou art. I went to Babylon, but did not see thee. I was greatly disappointed. Send the reason for thy leaving, that I may be happy. Do come in the month of Marchesvan. Keep well always for my sake."

Whether Bibea received this missive from her solicitous Gimil is not known, but she should have, for there was an elaborate post system in that day and it is known that there were regular dispatches between some of the principal cities. Among the large amount of material unearthed have been many shipping tags made of clay. These have upon them the name and address of the party to whom the merchandise was sent.

If all the atrocious charges made against the various belligerents during the present world war were true and were multiplied a hundred fold they would not reach the limits of cruelty attained by the famous king of Nineveh, Ashur-nasirpal III, whose own accounts of his refinement of the art of torture have been unearthed recently beneath the very plain where Turk and Muscovite are now battling for possession of the cradleland of civilization. This king wrote concerning one of his captives:

"I cut off the noses, the ears and the fingers; I put out the eyes of many soldiers. I built up a pyramid of the living and a pyramid of heads on high I hung up their heads on trees in the neighborhood of the city. Their young men and their maidens I burned with fire. The city I overthrew and dug it up, and burned it with fire; I annihilated it."

A correspondent of the Geographic society adds:

"The imagination is staggered at the very thought of that pyramid of the living,—human beings piled one upon another suffocating, strangling, perishing slowly and miserably before that other pyramid of their more fortunate friends to whom death had come swiftly, and at the thought of that monster who not only did this, but gloried in it, and caused the story of his brutality to be written indelibly upon the walls of his house."

Big Business
Recognizes
Publicity.

By BREEN.

In latter years the biggest enterprises in this country have recognized the value of advertising. The men in charge of their advertising campaigns are paid splendid salaries. In fact, no branch of the business receives more attention. Publicity and advertising form the keynote of success.

If big business needs advertising doesn't small business need it?

Every man in business needs advertising. If his business is a success he needs advertising to keep it so. If his business is struggling liberal advertising will build it up.

When appointed attorney general in place of Justice McKendall, then in the cabinet, he was a special counsel in the department of justice for the prosecution of the New Haven railroad.

MANY SEEK OFFICE IN NORTH DAKOTA.

Bismarck, June 27.—Interest of North Dakota voters in tomorrow's general primary election is centered largely in the contest for the Republican nomination for United States senator. Senator Porter J. McCumber, whose term will expire next March, is seeking re-nomination. The opposing candidates are Louis B. Hanna, the present governor; Herman N. Maltbo, of Minot, and R. A. Nestos, also of Minot. John Burke, of Devils Lake, three times governor of North Dakota and now treasurer of the United States, and Frank O. Hellstrom, of Bismarck, are the rival candidates for the Democratic nomination for United States senator.

In addition to the senatorship the voters will express their preferences for candidates for congress, for members of the judiciary and for governor, lieutenant governor and other state officers to be chosen at the November election. Complete tickets have been filed in the primary by the Republicans, Democrats and Socialists.

Four Republicans and three Democrats are contesting for the gubernatorial nominations of their respective parties. Congressman Helgeson, of the First district, has opposition for re-nomination in the person of F. D. Cutler, of Devils Lake. Congressman Young and Norton, representing the Second and Third districts, respectively, will be re-nominated without opposition.

GOVERNORS AT SALT LAKE

Salt Lake City, Utah, June 26.—Nearly two-score governors and former governors are expected to attend the opening here tomorrow of the ninth governors' conference, which for five days will wrestle with problems of importance to the entire country. America in the world market is to be the big subject of consideration. The conference also will find time to suggest and consider means of improving conditions within States and of simplifying relations between States which now have widely differing laws. Preliminary to the general conference, the annual meeting of the Western governors' conference was held today. Governor Spry of Utah, delivered an address of welcome and this was responded to by Governor Lester of Washington, president of the conference.

ACID IN STOMACH
SOURS THE FOOD

Says Excess of Hydrochloric Acid is Cause of Indigestion

A well-known authority states that stomach trouble and indigestion is nearly always due to acidity—acid stomach—and not, as most folks believe, from a lack of digestive juices. He states that an excess of hydrochloric acid in the stomach retards digestion and starts food fermentation, then our meals sour like garbage in a can, forming acid fluids and gases which inflame the stomach like a toy balloon. We then get that heavy, lumpy feeling in the chest, we eructate sour food, belch gas, or have heartburn, flatulence, waterbrash, or nausea.

He tells us to lay aside all digestive aids and in each wet from any pharmacy four ounces of Jad Salts and take a tablespoonful in a glass of water before breakfast while it is effecting, and furthermore, to continue this for one week. While relief follows the first dose, it is important to neutralize the acidity, remove the de-naturing mass, start the liver, stimulate the kidneys and thus promote a free flow of pure digestive juices. Jad Salts is inexpensive and is made from the acid of grapes and lemon juice, combined with lithia and sodium phosphate. This harmless salt is used by thousands of people for stomach trouble with excellent results.

HIS OWN STORY
HOLDS A THRILL
FOR THOUSANDS

Well-Known Pittsburger is Qualified to Speak for Millions

The story told by E. C. Byers, of 347 Pearl street, a well-known Pittsburgh butcher, will strike home to many hundreds of men and women. In the recital of his sufferings he might have been spokesman for a multitude, for in all cities there are legions who will recognize as their own, Mr. Byers' statement:

"I had constant spells of choking and coughing because of the accumulation of mucus in my nose and throat, which I eventually swallowed as I slept and which finally affected my stomach. I would wake four or five times a night because of the choking sensations. Rarely did I ever get a night's rest.

"When I decided to take a remedy a friend said: 'You will not make a mistake if you try Tanlac.' I believed him. I have used two bottles and Tanlac has helped me so much that I just want to tell every one what it has done for me. My cough has practically gone entirely. I sleep much better and my nose and throat and smell that were badly affected have improved wonderfully. My appetite, too, has come back and I feel like I could eat right or almost like a day. The pain over my eyes and in other parts of my head has disappeared. I get up in the morning with clear head, and not all stuffed up and dizzy as formerly."

Tanlac is now sold in Clearfield exclusively by Woodward & McPherson where the premier preparation can now be had.

KNIGHT GOES ON TRIAL FOR HIGH TREASON TODAY

Sir Roger Casement Pleads Not Guilty to Charge in London's Highest Court

Clad in Spanish Coat, Clean Shaven and Immaculate Linen, Irish Rebel Leader Faces Charge.

London, June 26.—(By United Press)—Sir Roger Casement went on trial for his life before Chief Justice Reading and associate Justices Avery and Harridge today. Wearing a Spanish cut coat, immaculate and neatly trimmed beard he looked a different man from the ill kempt man arraigned in Bow street police court a few weeks ago. He pleaded guilty to the charge of high treason, in a firm voice. David Bailey, Irish soldier charged with having brought rebels to Ireland, was not placed on trial. His case will be taken up separately.

London, June 26.—The writing of what is expected to be the concluding chapter of the history of the ill-fated Sinn Féin rebellion was begun in the High Court of Justice today when Sir Roger Casement, knight in 1911 for services to the British government, was arraigned for trial on the charge of high treason.

Rarely in modern times has a court convened in England to try so grave a crime as high treason. This, combined with the prominence of the accused and the sensational events leading up to his indictment, has served to rivet the attention of the entire nation on the solemn court proceedings that may lead to his conviction and sentence to death.

Baton Reading, the Lord Chief Justice, is to direct the crown's case against Sir Roger. A galaxy of eminent attorneys has been retained to look after the interests of the defense. The list is headed by Michael Francis Doyle, of Philadelphia. Other legal lights retained to assist in the defense of the accused baronet are Alexander Sullivan, of Dublin, and Prof. J. H. Morgan, who assisted at the preliminary hearing.

In a time when the commonplace of the day's news are sensational, an event has to be unusually dramatic to startle the news-reading world. But that world was startled, on the morning of April 25, by the news that Sir Roger Casement, a man bearing the order of British knighthood, who had distinguished himself by two remarkable humanitarian exploits of modern times, had been captured from a German blockade-runner, off the Irish Coast, in the attempt to join an uprising in Ireland.

Roger Casement was born in Dublin, in 1864, and came of patriotic parentage. His schooling was received in Ireland and England. In 1884 he went to Africa, which was to be the scene of his first great labor, and spent five years in the Congo, hunting and shooting and helping to lay the foundations of the Congo State. It was in 1892 that he finally entered the British Foreign Office service in the Niger Coast Protectorate, where he remained until 1895. He was then appointed consul at Delagoa Bay, in Southeastern Africa, and filled that post until 1898. In that year he was appointed consul to the Congo Free State, where he remained until 1904.

It was during his service as consul that Casement undertook a personal investigation of the atrocities alleged to be practised on the natives by the Belgian companies engaged in exploiting the natural wealth of the Congo. He spent several months journeying about the Congo region on his task. His report to the British government aroused a storm of indignation throughout the civilized world. The result was that King Leopold of Belgium was forced by public sentiment to institute a thorough house-cleaning in his Congo dominion and to end forever the reign of flogged women, tortured men and little children deprived of their right hands.

In 1909 Casement was serving as British consul at Rio de Janeiro. It was about this time that the story of the Putumayo atrocities began to leak out of the Peruvian jungle. According to these stories the Indians were being treated, if possible, worse than the Congo natives to make them gather rubber. Casement's success in the Congo inquiry led to his selection for a similar task in Peru. His second mission was carried out as successfully as his first, and in 1911, the year in which he made his final report on the Peruvian atrocities, he was rewarded with knighthood.

At the outbreak of the European war Sir Roger was in the United States, working on behalf of the Irish Volunteer movement. He sailed first for Ireland, where he was active in his opposition to the war. Later he sailed for Germany, from which country soon came reports that he was endeavoring to enlist German aid in a movement to free Ireland.

According to the charges Casement conducted a systematic campaign among the Irish prisoners in Germany, with the purpose of seducing them from their allegiance. Several of these prisoners, it is alleged, accompanied him on the expedition that led to his final downfall.

The complete details of this expedition are expected to be divulged at the present trial. The attorney general it is expected, will relate the story of Casement's alleged machinations in Berlin with details of his trip by submarine to Tralee, where he landed on Good Friday with Daniel J. Bailey, an Irish private soldier who was arrested with him, and a third man named Monteth, who escaped capture. The story also will be told of the sinking of a German ship bound for Tralee with 20,000 rifles for the Irish rebellion.

GOVERNORS TACKLE BIG PROBLEMS.

Salt Lake City, June 27.—Some of the big problems confronting the nation are likely to be advanced measurably toward solution by the ninth annual governors' conference which met here today, providing such problems may be solved through the medium of intelligent discussion by men well qualified to speak on the subjects assigned them. The attendance at the present conference is by far the largest and most representative since the first of the annual conferences of governors met at the White House nearly a decade ago in response to an invitation issued by President Roosevelt.

More than three-fourths of the states of the union, including virtually all of those lying west of the Mississippi, were officially represented at the opening of the proceedings today. Gov. William Spry, of Utah, delivered the address of welcome and response for the visiting executives was made by Gov. Roland H. Spaulding, of New Hampshire.

Preparedness for a larger participation in world commerce and the state and federal legislation necessary to launch and develop new policies and new methods are to constitute the general subject of discussion by the governors during their four days' sessions. Mobilization of American resources, industries and commerce, distribution of the immigrant, and land settlement policies are among the subjects that will receive attention. The recent course of events in Mexico renders it likely also that some phases of the general subject, preparedness for national defense and the relation of the state thereto, will be presented and discussed by the governors.

Among the governors who are scheduled to address the conference are Edward F. Dunne, of Illinois; James Withycombe, of Oregon; Ernest Lister, of Washington; Charles Henderson, of Alabama; George A. Carlson, of Colorado; George W. P. Hunt, of Arizona; Hiram W. Johnson, of California, and J. A. A. Burnquist, of Minnesota.

COL. W. M. FAIRMAN, DELEGATE OF 80, WEARS QUAINT CLOTHES

Regrets That Democrats' Capacity For Consuming Liquor Decreases As They Grow Older

Col. William M. Fairman, of Punxsutawney, Pa., a delegate, attracted much attention in the lobby of the Jefferson hotel this morning on account of the cut of his coat and the style of his straw hat. Col. Fairman, who is 80 years old, and who says that nearly all of his left side was shot away by Confederate soldiers during the Civil war, wore a homespun woolen suit of a very quaint pattern. The coat was square cut, and reached his knees. The lapels were six inches wide. He wore a standing collar which did not touch his neck at all. His straw hat was made of a very coarse braid and had a high crown, and slightly up-curved brim.

"A lot of us Democrats are unfortunately growing old," Col. Fairbank remarked, "but the worst thing about it is that our capacity for consuming liquor seems to be diminishing at an alarmingly rapid rate."

At that hour—10 a. m., hundreds of delegates and visitors were in the lobby of the hotel, and there was not a customer in the bar. — St. Louis Times.

WESTERN PACIFIC TO BE SOLD.

Oakland, Cal., June 27.—Any person with a hankering to become a railway magnate and possessing a bank roll of seven million dollars or so, will be given an opportunity to gratify his ambition in this city tomorrow morning, when Federal Commissioner Krull is to offer the Western Pacific system at public auction. The sale is the result of the foreclosure proceedings instituted against the company some months ago. The federal court has fixed $18,000,000 as the minimum price for the property, and majority bondholders are expected to buy in the road at that figure.

Pity the Man Who Doesn't Advertise!

By BREXEN.

"I have an established business. I don't require advertising."

That is the answer of some self satisfied man to a request for advertising. Meanwhile his progressive neighbor is using printer's ink lavishly.

The result is obvious. It's only a question of time.

The self satisfied business man soon finds his trade disappearing. His progressive neighbor goes ahead with leaps and bounds. Every business, no matter how firmly established, needs advertising. If it isn't advertised it soon will be in a rut. Don't get in a rut. Advertise.

Little Talks On Health and Hygiene

During the hot weather fruits and vegetables are a necessary part of the diet. Many of these are more appetizing when eaten raw. Bessies,
radishes, onions and salads appear
regularly on the menu at this season
and have their value as food.

Care should be exercised in the preparation and serving of green
foods, however, as they are subject
to much handling between the garden and the table. Unless the hands
through which they pass are absolutely clean they are more or less contaminated. In many market gardens the gathering of the produce is entrusted to a class of labor which is
not any too cleanly and care is seldom exercised to insure cleanliness.

Food exposed for sale in markets
is often subject to indiscriminate
handling by prospective purchasers
and is seldom properly protected
from dust and dirt.

As a protection berries and foodstuffs eaten raw should be thoroughly washed before being served. It is far better to risk a slight impairment of the flavor than to chance
eating unclean foods.

Nightsoil should not be used for fertilizing gardens from which the produce may be eaten raw. Watercress should not be gathered from
streams which are polluted with sewage. Many cases are on record
where typhoid fever has resulted
from failure to observe this precaution.

Proper Way to Keep Milk In The Home During Hot Summer Months

Washington, June 27.—The 3 "C's"
(United Press)—The three "C's" for
proper care of milk in the home,
according to the dairy specialists of
the U. S. Department of Agriculture
are:

Keep milk Clean, Cold, Covered.
Milk is highly perishable food and
the length of time it will remain
sweet and safe, especially for children, depends, the specialists say, almost entirely upon the constant care
it receives from cow to consumer.
Milk passes through three agencies
the producer, the dealer and the consumer. If the first two have done
their part, clean, safe milk will be delivered, thoroughly chilled, to the consumer. The consumer's responsibility begins the moment the milk is
delivered at his doorstep.

Because milk poured from vessel
to vessel on the street is very liable
to contamination, from dust, manure
particles and germs, milk is best delivered in capped bottles. If bottled milk can not be obtained, the housewife should try to have someone in the family receive the milk in
a clean, sealed utensil, cover it instantly, and put it without delay into
the refrigerator, or the coldest available place. Under no circumstances
should an uncovered pitcher, bowl or
pan be left out on the porch to receive bulk milk. The vessel, both before and after the milk is poured
into it, is accessible to flies and collects particles of dust and dirt.

Even in the case of bottled milk,
however, the consumer must see that
the bottle is not left out in the heat
for a moment longer than is necessary. Milk should be delivered and
kept at a temperature of 50 degrees
or lower—the colder the better. At such temperatures bacteria develop
very slowly and milk undergoes little change until consumed. A slight
rise in temperature above this point,
however, permits bacteria to multiply
rapidly and brings about rapid deterioration of the milk, which may render it unfit for ordinary use and

make it highly dangerous for babies
and little children. For this reason bottled or other milk should not be allowed to remain in a warm place,
as on a sunny porch or in a hot kitchen, for a moment longer than is necessary.

Timely Advice to Auto Owners

There is a knock in my car. I have just taken up the bearings, but the noise still continues. It seems to be in the front part of the motor and has a metallic sound like a loose connecting
rod. Could you suggest where this might be?

If the bearings are all in good shape
look for the trouble at the piston of one of the front cylinders. It might be a piston slap due to the piston being
under size, or it might be in the wrist
pin bearing. Possibly there is a broken
ring on one of the front pistons; but,
at any rate, examine them to determine just where it is. It would be difficult to lay the trouble at any point
without examination of the engine.

I am having trouble with the differential of my car. Have broken two
drive shaft pinions, two drive or ring
gears and three differential cross pin-
ions, also the differential thrust bearing balls and ball races are giving trouble. The differential makes a grinding noise when running. Would tightening the wheels on the axle
cause any part of this trouble? Please tell me how to assemble and adjust
these parts to eliminate the trouble.

It is imperative when installing a
new differential that you see that it
runs free in the axle housing and that there is no binding whatever. If the differential is too tight it will have a tendency to cut out the races. To overcome this we believe that it might
be well to cut out a portion of the housing behind the ball race so that
the differential will turn freely.

The growing noise is caused by the pinion and the ring gear meshing too
tight. It is practical at all times to make sure that there is a certain amount of back lash in the pinion gear,
and, further, one must make sure that
the pinion gear is meshing level with
the ring gear.

It is impossible to tighten the wheels
too tight to cause any of the trouble
you are having, as the axle shafts are
tapered and on this account the wheel
is drawn up on the taper.

What is the maximum speed of two
cycle engines?

The maximum speed of the two
cycle may be expected to be lower
than that of the four cycle, due to the fact that with the increase in speed
more of the dead gas will remain in
the cylinder.

I have a car which I wish to convert
into a speedster. Can you tell me
what changes are necessary to secure
the most speed out of it?

The weight distribution over the front and rear wheels should be made
as nearly equal as possible, so that the car will hold the track and take the turns without upsetting. This rule is followed out in designing cars for racing. The center of gravity is made
as low as possible to accomplish the same end. The motor should be balanced by making the reciprocating
parts as nearly equal as possible in weight. The crankshaft must be perfectly balanced, the connecting rods to weigh the same—in fact, there must
not be more work thrust upon one cylinder than upon another. By reducing the body weight the car will give greater speed. The new body should be such that wind resistance is reduced considerably. For this is one great factor in speed. By reducing the gear ratio still greater speed may be obtained, but the life of the car would be short with a gear ratio of less than three and one-half to one.

Is there such a thing as an internal
combustion rotary engine?
There has been a great deal of experimenting in the way of internal
combustion rotary engines and gasoline turbines. In fact, there are dozens of them on file in the patent office. So far none of them has been a financial success.

Carranza's Reply To American Demand Expected Tomorrow

President's Patience In Awaiting Release Limited To Hours--Note Was Delivered Yesterday

FIRST BRIGADE ORDERED TO EL PASO

Washington, June 27.—(By United Press)—President Wilson's patience in awaiting release of American prisoners in Chihuahua City is limited to hours not days. It may be stated that a definite reply from General Carranza relative to his attitude is expected not later than tomorrow night. The state department has been informed the President's demands were delivered to Mexican Minister of Foreign Affairs Aguilar yesterday. It is understood Consul Rodgers in presenting the note to Aguilar suggested that "immediate reply" was imperative. What lies beyond this, officials will not discuss. The program of possible action was taken up by the cabinet today. It is understood that in the event of Carranza's refusal to release the 17 Americans held prisoners, President Wilson will ask congress to permit his use of the armed forces of the United States.

Militia Entraining
Reports to Secretary of War Baker today showed that the movement of the troops southward was progressing. New York, New Jersey, Massachusetts, Vermont, Connecticut and other eastern militia of the National Guard of the United States were entraining and moving south. Massachusetts artillery and field artillery, signal corps and hospital and ambulance corps followed the third infantry regiments—the second, fifth and ninth—that got off last night.

Vermont's first infantry delayed by lack of cars left camp today. Half of the 14th New York infantry was aboard the first train that left Peekskill for the border. The remainder of that regiment followed. The 7th regiment left New York City going to Jersey City and entraining there. New Jersey waved farewells to the last of its guardsmen included in the first call at four o'clock. The 4th and 5th regiments will be brought here next in response to the war department's request for American troops and the 2nd and 3rd regiments will probably follow them at once. Connecticut troops left for the south this morning.

Laredo, June 27.—A troop train of 20 cars loaded with Carranza soldiers arrived at Nuevo Laredo opposite here today. It is estimated there were 1500 men on the train. Arrival of another troop train last night was reported.

Mt. Gretna, June 27.—Orders that the first brigade and other organizations that will accompany it be sent direct to El Paso were received here today from the war department via the Adjutant General's department. The troops will leave tonight.

Governor Brumbaugh suddenly came to camp which bears his name today. This is the first visit except for a brief visit on Friday before the camp opened. He made the trip by automobile and was accompanied by Secretary William Bell.

Federalization of Naval Militia
Washington, June 27.—The house naval affairs committee today reported out a bill for the federalization of the naval militia the principal features of which have been endorsed by the administration. It enables the President to draft the men of whom there are about 9,000. The house today by a vote of 119 to 5 disagreed to the action of the senate in eliminating the provision of the Hay resolution to grant $50.00 a month to dependents of militiamen.

Villa Still Alive
Private advices to state department officials today was said to confirm border reports that General Villa is still alive.

New Militia to Be Formed
Harrisburg, June 27.—Neither national or state officials know whether or not a new division of the national guard will be formed. A huge pile of requests from various parts of the state is in the Adjutant General's office. They have not been acknowledged. Officials are of the opinion that a new division will be formed as soon as the present force is sent to the border.

Bryan Doesn't Want Clash
St. Paul, June 27.—"There is probably no person who wants the Mexican matter settled without a clash of arms more than I" said William Jennings Bryan. "But please remember that I said settled," he continued. "If I were asked by the administration to represent it at the border I think I would accept but without our President's sanction I decline to meet with Dr. David Jordan, Frank P. Walsh and three Mexicans to prevent conflict."

San Antonio, June 27.—(By United Press)—General Funston announced today that the 22nd Infantry has been sent from Douglas to Naco, Ariz., in preparation for the reported gathering of Carranza forces. There were three battalions of Infantry and three of field artillery left today for Eagle Pass to protect that section in case of attack.

Villa was today unofficially reported ready to muster his forces into the de facto government and fight the United States if granted amnesty. Villa was stated in these reports to be at the head of a camp in the Paria district. Carranza is reported willing to make Villa general and place him at the head of 5,000 soldiers.

Information from these sources is presumably perfectly reliable. They think in case of war Villa will have charge of a large number of Carranza's forces.

EXPENSES WILL BE $1500

At a meeting of the committee in charge of the arrangements for the annual Firemen's convention of District No. 2 comprising nine counties in Central Pennsylvania, the list of prizes which will be offered was completed. The list is one of the largest and best ever offered by any town for the winners of the various contests which furnish amusement for the firemen during the two days convention.

The following is the prize list:

At the meeting last night the committee organized and elected officers for the convention which will be held here August 23 and 24. The following officers were elected: President, J. D. Connelly; vice presidents, C. G. Wilson and J. K. Potter; secretary, S. Boyd Smith; assistant secretary, Ira Jay; treasurer, Ed. B. Chase. The other members of the committee were appointed on the finance committee.

It was decided last night that at least fifteen hundred dollars would be necessary to hold the convention. Plans for raising this amount will be made at the next meeting which will be held next Thursday evening. The fire department cleared five hundred dollars on the carnival which was held some time ago and this amount will be used for defraying some of the expenses of the coming convention. The remaining thousand dollars will be raised by subscription which the finance committee will assist in the near future. Last year Phillipsburg raised by subscription over $2,000 for the convention.

The committee is planning on offering to the public and for the firemen's amusement a large number of high class attractions at the Clearfield Driving park. There will be either an aeroplane or balloon ascension free of charge as the chief attraction. The largest crowd that ever thronged the streets of Clearfield is expected to attend this convention.

MEXICO BLAMES U.S. FOR SEEKING PRETEXT FOR WAR

Mexico City, June 27.—(By United Press)—A charge that the United States is attempting to seek a pretext for intervention in Mexico is made by Foreign Secretary Aguilar in a message to the Latin-American republics. "Apparently the American government without adequate reasons for declaring war on Mexico wishes to make hostilities inevitable," wired the foreign secretary. "Mexico should win or succumb with dignity."

An earlier communication sent to the Latin American republics last night declared that the United States is concentrating forces against the Mexican border and that war appears inevitable.

Evacuation of San Geronimo and Bachitina by American troops who moved northward aroused high hopes here today that President Wilson is preparing to withdraw General Pershing's expedition from Mexico. The department gave no explanation of the move. A telegram from General Trevino announcing the evacuation and declaring his purpose of attacking the Americans if they attempted to occupy the town was given out.

Notwithstanding statements in the American newspapers that war is imminent, a strong optimistic sentiment prevails among Mexican leaders here. The newspaper printed reports that belief of South American countries sympathize with the Mexicans in the present crisis. The papers state that South American newspapers all regard the presence of Americans on Mexican soil as a flagrant violation of Mexican sovereignty and believe that the establishment of a border patrol would prevent banditry.

Washington, June 27.—Latin American diplomats in Washington today telegraphed General Carranza urging release of 17 American troops held prisoners at Chihuahua City.

South American diplomats petitioned Carranza today. These diplomats pointed out to Carranza that if he is sincere in his desire to prevent war, and since there is no war yet, captured men are not prisoners of war and cannot be legally held on that score.

M. J. FARRELL NARROWLY ESCAPES SERIOUS INJURY

Bad Spot in Road Causes Car to Swerve, Going Over Bank.

M. J. Farrell, who was a candidate for county commissioner and is well known in this community had a narrow escape from serious injury or death last evening about five o'clock while returning home from Clearfield to his farm below Moose Creek. It appears that there is a bad spot in the road at the approach to the Moose Creek bridge and Mr. Farrell who was driving an auto, hit this spot rather hard which threw the machine sideways onto the bridge. The machine hung suspended over the side of the bridge with the front wheels hanging over. The guard rail on the bridge broke the force of the machine and prevented it from going into the creek.

Subscribers In All Quarters Rally To Support Candidates

Important Two Weeks Period of Big Progress Contest In Full Swing. Contestants Meet With Success

YOU MUST HELP NAME THE WINNERS

Subscribers to the Progress and others who are interested readers of Clearfield county's leading daily paper are earnestly invited and urged to examine carefully the list of the popular and ambitious individuals who are now actively competing for the Overland automobile and many other excellent prizes offered by this paper, in its great voting contest. This list now represents those who are devoting their efforts to the vote and subscription getting that will determine their success in this very popular event. Each and every one of these active candidates are entirely worthy of the support and encouragement of the public and every one is now urged to select their candidates from the list of active vote getters and hand them their subscriptions, or turn them in at this office, with a request for the votes to be credited to the candidate of their choice. Probably every one of the many active and energetic candidates deserve to win the splendid prizes offered, however only one of them can win that fine Overland touring car, only one can win the splendid $100.00 Baumeister piano and only one can win each of the other prizes offered, so it is up to the good people of this county and the outside territory to determine who will be the fortunate individual to carry off the top prize, who will stand second for the next grand prize and who will be the other winners.

A number of times during the past few days we have emphasized the importance of the contestants making an active and energetic campaign for the subscriptions at this time when they will count for the most votes and we now wish to call this fact to the attention of the subscribers and others who will furnish the subscriptions that will mean victory or defeat for these ambitious persons. It is to be remembered that next week marks the close of the first voting period of the contest and after that time the votes issued on all subscriptions and bonus clubs will be considerably reduced. The voting schedule as announced at the beginning of the contest for the different periods of the contest will remain exactly as announced and no greater offer of votes or other change in the schedule will be made during the contest. This is an absolute guarantee of fairness to contestants and subscribers alike, each candidate knowing exactly what to expect in the way of votes from the effort put into the vote getting and each subscriber knowing exactly how many votes his or her subscription is giving the candidate.

Remember a new one year subscription to the Progress at this time will give a candidate 3,500 votes and after next week the same subscription would be good for only 3,000 votes, a new two year subscription is now good for 8,000 votes and after next week only 6,500, a new five year one now gives 25,000 votes but after next week only 20,000. Subscriptions of other lengths, whether new or old will suffer the same reduction in the number of votes as will the bonus ballots on the $30.00 clubs of new subscription business.

A Serious Contest

While the campaigns of the various contestants in this Big Progress enterprise will be conducted in the friendliest sort of spirit, nevertheless for all contestants who aspire to win the grand prizes, or in fact any of the splendid prizes, the contest will be a very serious affair. The competition will be very keen and the pace will be fast so that it will require some thinking, careful planning and well directed effort. The time of the contest is not long however, and the prizes to be won are worth many times the time and effort that will be required to win any of them. Think of winning a fine new, five passenger touring car by simply devoting some effort to a popular undertaking for a period of only a few short weeks. Surely the winning of this splendid gift is a matter of much moment and only in a slightly less degree is the winning of the other prizes offered by the Progress, for they are well worth working for. The public should now realize that the efforts of the various candidates and the prizes they win will largely be determined by the amount

Chamber of Commerce Distributing Handsome New Membership Signs

New Signs Will Protect Members Against Any Fake Advertising Solicitor.

The new membership signs of the Chamber of Commerce were shipped by the Whitehead & Hoag Co., of Newark, N. J., on Saturday, June 24, and are now being distributed to members.

They are made of "Crystaloid," a neat and attractive patented material, which will retain its color and brilliancy for years. The membership committee will have charge of their distribution.

In the several prosperous years of its existence, the Chamber of Commerce has not as yet lost a single member among the financial and mercantile institutions of Clearfield, but on the contrary has added a substantial number of new members—a splendid record of community co-operation.

The membership committee comprises the following named men: Geo. L. McCullough, chairman; Frank G. Gililand, A. D. Gould, J. Emmott, Harder, Albert R. Hinkle, Ralph J. in caption don, Frederick B. Kerr, A. W. Lee, Jr., T. Riley Lytle, O. Bruce Porter and Wade L. Stewart.

A complete roster of members will be published following the membership campaign which will be started at once.

A meritorious feature of the new signs is the warning each sign conveys to all fake advertising solicitors and other solicitors of unquestionable merit. This protection will be appreciated by all members, as every solicitor must present an endorsement card from the Chamber of Commerce before he will even be given a favorable interview by local merchants and business houses. The endorsement will not recommend subscriptions. It will merely state that the plan endorsed is not a fake scheme and will leave it entirely to the judgment of the member as to whether he shall subscribe or not. Each membership sign carries this

Chamber of Commerce
CLEARFIELD, PA.

Advertising, Charity and other solicitors must present a "Certificate of Investigation."

This card is to be returned on request when membership conditions are violated.

Mme. Czarina Clarke--Tillotson Gives Excellent Song Recital

Recital Was Given Under the Auspices of Miss Maude Powell's Sunday School Class.

A great musical treat was given last evening by Mme. Czarina Clarke-Tillotson, of New York, under the auspices of Miss Maude Powell's Sunday school class of the Trinity M. E. church in the Y. M. C. A. auditorium. Mme. Clarke-Tillotson possesses a beautiful and powerful soprano voice full of feeling which years of cultivation both here and abroad has brought to an unusual degree of beauty. She is also a composer of some very attractive songs and verses two of which she sang last evening and which met with much favor. The accompaniments were delightfully played by Miss Sara Wright Ford. A highly appreciative audience greatly enjoyed the recital which was a success in every particular.

"Bill Fairman" at the St. Louis convention bemoans the fact that the capacity of a Democrat for liquor is diminishing. This would make a cracker-jack point in their platform. Who overlooked it?

That the spirit of '76 is not dead or even drowsy was strongly manifested in Tyrone Sunday morning when the Sheridan Troop left for Mount Gretna, where they will await summons to the border. The Tyrone Shop Band, Bellwood Band, Bellwood Drum Corps, Patriotic organizations and lodges formed a parade easily a mile long, and the greatest crowd ever assembled on the streets of Tyrone turned out to witness the demonstration even though the hour was seven-thirty a. m. and the day Sunday.

Teddy's hat is in the ring again. This time it is in support of Hughes. Many comments will be made on this action and to us it bears out our contentions that Teddy is one of the biggest men in American life today. There is no doubt but that he entertained personal ambitions in aspiring to the Presidential nomination but he did not let the clamoring of the radical Progressives overshadow the paramount call to harmony in the Republican ranks. Teddy could have run independently and been accorded a large measure of support but in the interest of true Republicanism he steps out of his own accord and directs his followers to follow the man who is destined to maintain American sovereignty.

That the demand of the railroaders for an eight hour day and other concessions is giving much worry to railroad owners is amply proven by the fact that they are spending thousands of dollars just now in publicity in the way of paid advertisements which any newspaper will print as an advertisement but without subscribing one iota to the claims set forth in the advertisement. The question of an eight hour day for railroads is no doubt one of the paramount issues confronting the business of the nation today. Without taking sides in the issue justice demands that we admit on the one side that the life of a railroad man is dangerous, that he is at the beck and call of his employer practically twenty-four hours a day, and that he has many reasons for complaint. The family meal, the evening fireside, and the family altar, which is so dear to most of us are, from the very fact that he can never tell when he is going to be at home for an evening or a meal, denied to him. Association with our family is the most precious thing about life. On the other hand we must admit that the putting in force of an eight hour agreement will mean an upheaval in commercial conditions. Whether it will amount to the direful result prophesied remains to be seen. One thing is sure and that is that a man should have more than eight hours rest before being put to work again after he has worked sixteen hours.

The strong offensive developed recently by Russian forces operating against the desperately resisting Turks northwest of Bagdad has awakened a world-wide interest in this whole region of Mesopotamia and particularly in the ruins of the great city of Nineveh, lying just across the Tigris from Mosul and a probable battlefield during the Muscovite assault upon this moslem key to the upper valley of the historic river. Concerning the ancient capital of Assyria and the manner in which its buried secrets have been brought to light within very recent times, Albert T. Cary, professor of Assyriology and Babylonian literature at Yale University, has sent a communication to the National Geographic society, part of which was released today from the society's Washington headquarters, as a war geography bulletin. Prof. Cary writes:

"One of the romances of the last 75 years has been the unearthing of the remains of forgotten empires and the decipherment of their ancient records. A little over a half a century ago what was known concerning the ancient peoples of the nearer East, besides that which is contained in the Old Testament, could be written in a very brief form.

"Israel was then regarded as one of the great nations of antiquity. Abraham belonged to the dawn of civilization. The references to other peoples in the Old Testament had little meaning, for few appreciated the fact that the history of many pre-Israelitish nations had practically faded from the knowledge of man. The pick and spade of the explorer, however, and the patient toil of the decipherer have thrown a flood of light upon the situation; ruin hills of the past have been opened up to the light of day, out of which emerge marvelous revelations in the form of written records and other remains.

"The researches have resulted in astounding revelations. Israel, instead of being one of the foremost nations of antiquity, is now found to have been a small power which has thrived in the late pre-Christian centuries, and had occupied a comparatively insignificant position among the great nations of the age. In stead of the patriarch Abraham being longed to the beginning of time, it is now found that he occupied a middle chapter of the history of mankind.

Prof. Cary tells of some remarkable documents found in the ruins of Nineveh's "congressional library" where manuscripts were catalogued and arranged according to subject matter, much as in our libraries of today. One clay tablet discloses the fact that "the sweetest story ever told" was with the same naive fervor five thousand years ago as it is today. It is a lover's plaint, thus expressed: "To Bibea, thus says Gimil Marduk; may the gods Shamash and Marduk permit thee to live forever for my sake. I write to inquire concerning thy health. Tell me how thou art. I went to Babylon, but did not see thee. I was greatly disappointed. Send the reason for thy leaving, that I may be happy. Do come in the month of Marchesvan. Keep well always for my sake."

Whether Bibea received this missive from her solicitous Gimil is not known, but she should have, for there was an elaborate post system in that day and it is known that there were regular dispatches between some of the principal cities. Among the large amount of material unearthed have been many shipping tags made of clay. These have upon them the name and address of the party to whom the merchandise was sent.

If all the atrocious charges made against the various belligerents during the present world war were true and were multiplied a hundred fold they would not reach the limits of cruelty attained by the famous king of Nineveh, Ashur-natsirpal III, whose own accounts of his refinement of the art of torture have been unearthed recently beneath the very plain where Turk and Muscovite are now battling for possession of the cradleland of civilization. This king wrote concerning one of his captives:

I cut off the noses, the ears and the fingers; I put out the eyes of many soldiers. I built up a pyramid of the living and a pyramid of heads on high I hung up their heads on trees in the neighborhood of the city. Their young men and their maidens I burned with fire. The city I overthrew and dug it up, and burned it with fire; I annihilated it."

A correspondent of the Geographic society adds:

"The imagination is staggered at the very thought of that pyramid of the living,—human beings piled one upon another suffocating, strangling, perishing slowly and miserably before that other pyramid of their more fortunate friends to whom death had come swiftly, and at the thought of that monster who not only did this, but gloried in it, and caused the story of his brutality to be written indelibly upon the walls of his house."

In most instances the observance took the form of special exercises under the auspices of the local commercial organizations.

Big Business
Recognizes
Publicity.

By BREEN.

In latter years the biggest enterprises in this country have recognized the value of advertising. The men in charge of their advertising campaigns are paid splendid salaries. In fact, no branch of the business receives more attention. Publicity and advertising form the keynote of success.

If big business needs advertising doesn't small business need it?

Every man in business needs advertising. If his business is a success he needs advertising to keep it so. If his business is struggling liberal advertising will build it up.

MANY SEEK OFFICE IN NORTH DAKOTA.

Bismarck, June 27.—Interest of North Dakota voters in tomorrow's general primary election is centered largely in the contest for the Republican nomination for United States senator. Senator Porter J. McCumber, whose term will expire next March, is seeking renomination. The opposing candidates are Louis B. Hanna, the present governor; Herman N. Mithro, of Minot, and R. A. Nestos, also of Minot. John Burke, of Devils Lake, three times governor of North Dakota and now treasurer of the United States, and Frank O. Hellstrom, of Bismarck, are the rival candidates for the Democratic nomination for United States senator.

In addition to the senatorship the voters will express their preferences for candidates for congress, for members of the judiciary and for governor, lieutenant governor and other state officers to be chosen at the November election. Complete tickets have been filed in the primary by the Republicans, Democrats and Socialists.

Four Republicans and three Democrats are contesting for the gubernatorial nominations of their respective parties. Congressman Helgeson, of the First district, has opposition for renomination in the person of F. D. Cuthbert, of Devils Lake. Congressman Young and Norton, representing the Second and Third districts, respectively, will be renominated without opposition.

A well-known authority states that stomach trouble and indigestion is nearly always due to acidity—acid stomach—and not, as most folks believe, from a lack of digestive juices. He states that an excess of hydrochloric acid in the stomach retards digestion and starts food fermentation, then our meals sour like garbage in a can, forming acid fluids and gases which inflate the stomach like a toy balloon. We then get that heavy, lumpy feeling in the chest, we eructate sour food, belch gas, or have heartburn, flatulence, waterbrash, or nausea.

He tells us to lay aside all digestive aids and in each wet from any pharmacy four ounces of Jad Salts and take a tablespoonful in a glass of water before breakfast while it is effecting, and furthermore, to continue this for one week. While relief follows the first dose, it is important to neutralize the acidity, remove the de-naturing mass, start the liver, stimulate the kidneys and thus promote a free flow of pure digestive juices. Jad Salts is inexpensive and is made from the acid of grapes and lemon juice, combined with lithia and sodium phosphate. This harmless salt is used by thousands of people for stomach trouble with excellent results.

HOLDS A THRILL
FOR THOUSANDS

Well-Known Pittsburger is Qualified to Speak for Millions

The story told by E. C. Byers, of 347 Pearl street, a well-known Pittsburgh butcher, will strike home to many hundreds of men and women. In the recital of his sufferings he might have been spokesman for a multitude, for in all cities there are legions who will recognize as their own, Mr. Byers' statement:

"I had constant spells of choking and coughing because of the accumulation of mucus in my nose and throat, which I eventually swallowed as I slept and which finally affected my stomach. I would wake four or five times a night because of the choking sensations. Rarely did I ever get a night's rest.

"When I decided to take a remedy a friend said: 'You will not make a mistake if you try Tanlac.' I believed him. I have used two bottles and Tanlac has helped me so much that I just want to tell every one what it has done for me. My catarrh has practically gone entirely. I sleep much better and my nose and throat and smell that were badly affected have improved wonderfully. My appetite, too, has come back and I feel like I could eat right or almost like a day. The pain over my eyes and in other parts of my head has disappeared. I get up in the morning with clear head, and not all stuffed up and dizzy as formerly."

Tanlac is now sold in Clearfield exclusively by Woodward & McPherson where the premier preparation can now be had.

KNIGHT GOES ON TRIAL FOR HIGH TREASON TODAY

Sir Roger Casement Pleads Not Guilty to Charge in London's Highest Court

Clad in Spanish Coat, Clean Shaven and Immaculate Linen, Irish Rebel Leader Faces Charge.

London, June 26.—(By United Press)—Sir Roger Casement went on trial for his life before Chief Justice Reading and associate Justices Avery and Harbridge today. Wearing a Spanish cut coat, immaculate and neatly trimmed beard he looked a different man from the ill kempt man arraigned in Bow street police court a few weeks ago. He pleaded guilty to the charge of high treason, in a firm voice. David Bailey, Irish soldier charged with having brought rebels to Ireland, was not placed on trial. His case will be taken up separately.

London, June 26.—The writing of what is expected to be the concluding chapter of the history of the ill-fated Sinn Féin rebellion was begun in the High Court of Justice today when Sir Roger Casement, knight in 1911 for services to the British government, was arraigned for trial on the charge of high treason.

Rarely in modern times has a court convened in England to try so grave a crime as high treason. This, combined with the prominence of the accused and the sensational events leading up to his indictment, has served to rivet the attention of the entire nation on the solemn court proceedings that may lead to his conviction and sentence to death.

Baton Reading, the Lord Chief Justice, is to direct the crown's case against Sir Roger. A galaxy of eminent attorneys has been retained to look after the interests of the defense. The list is headed by Michael Francis Doyle, of Philadelphia. Other legal lights retained to assist in the defense of the accused baronet are Alexander Sullivan, of Dublin, and Prof. J. H. Morgan, who assisted at the preliminary hearing.

In a time when the commonplace of the day's news are sensational, an event has to be unusually dramatic to startle the news-reading world. But that world was startled, on the morning of April 25, by the news that Sir Roger Casement, a man bearing the order of British knighthood, who had distinguished himself by two remarkable humanitarian exploits of modern times, had been captured from a German blockade-runner, off the Irish Coast, in the attempt to join an uprising in Ireland.

Roger Casement was born in Dublin, in 1864, and came of patriotic parentage. His schooling was received in Ireland and England. In 1884 he went to Africa, which was to be the scene of his first great labor, and spent five years in the Congo, hunting and shooting and helping to lay the foundations of the Congo State. It was in 1892 that he finally entered the British Foreign Office service in the Niger Coast Protectorate, where he remained until 1895. He was then appointed consul at Delagoa Bay, in Southeastern Africa, and filled that post until 1898. In that year he was appointed consul to the Congo Free State, where he remained until 1904.

It was during his service as consul that Casement undertook a personal investigation of the atrocities alleged to be practised on the natives by the Belgian companies engaged in exploiting the natural wealth of the Congo. He spent several months journeying about the Congo region on his task. His report to the British government aroused a storm of indignation throughout the civilized world. The result was that King Leopold of Belgium was forced by public sentiment to institute a thorough house-cleaning in his Congo dominion and to end forever the reign of flogged women, tortured men and little children deprived of their right hands.

In 1909 Casement was serving as British consul at Rio de Janeiro. It was about this time that the story of the Putumayo atrocities began to leak out of the Peruvian jungle. According to these stories the Indians were being treated, if possible, worse than the Congo natives to make them gather rubber. Casement's success in the Congo inquiry led to his selection for a similar task in Peru. His second mission was carried out as successfully as his first, and in 1911, the year in which he made his final report on the Peruvian atrocities, he was rewarded with knighthood.

At the outbreak of the European war Sir Roger was in the United States, working on behalf of the Irish Volunteer movement. He sailed first for Ireland, where he was active in his opposition to the war. Later he sailed for Germany, from which country soon came reports that he was endeavoring to enlist German aid in a movement to free Ireland.

According to the charges Casement conducted a systematic campaign among the Irish prisoners in Germany, with the purpose of seducing them from their allegiance. Several of these prisoners, it is alleged, accompanied him on the expedition that led to his final downfall.

The complete details of this expedition are expected to be divulged at the present trial. The attorney general it is expected, will relate the story of Casement's alleged machinations in Berlin with details of his trip by submarine to Tralee, where he landed on Good Friday with Daniel J. Bailey, an Irish private soldier who was arrested with him, and a third man named Monteth, who escaped capture. The story also will be told of the sinking of a German ship bound for Tralee with 20,000 rifles for the Irish rebellion.

GOVERNORS TACKLE BIG PROBLEMS.

Salt Lake City, June 27.—Some of the big problems confronting the nation are likely to be advanced measurably toward solution by the ninth annual governors' conference which met here today, providing such problems may be solved through the medium of intelligent discussion by men well qualified to speak on the subjects assigned them. The attendance at the present conference is by far the largest and most representative since the first of the annual conferences of governors met at the White House nearly a decade ago in response to an invitation issued by President Roosevelt.

More than three-fourths of the states of the union, including virtually all of those lying west of the Mississippi, were officially represented at the opening of the proceedings today. Gov. William Spry, of Utah, delivered the address of welcome and response for the visiting executives was made by Gov. Rolland H. Spaulding, of New Hampshire.

Preparedness for a larger participation in world commerce and the state and federal legislation necessary to launch and develop new policies and new methods are to constitute the general subject of discussion by the governors during their four days' sessions. Mobilization of American resources, industries and commerce, distribution of the immigrant, and land settlement policies are among the subjects that will receive attention. The recent course of events in Mexico renders it likely also that some phases of the general subject, preparedness for national defense and the relation of the state thereto, will be presented and discussed by the governors.

Among the governors who are scheduled to address the conference are Edward F. Dunne, of Illinois; James Withycombe, of Oregon; Ernest Lister, of Washington; Charles Henderson, of Alabama; George A. Carlson, of Colorado; George W. P. Hunt, of Arizona; Hiram W. Johnson, of California, and J. A. A. Burnquist, of Minnesota.

COL. W. M. FAIRMAN, DELEGATE OF 80, WEARS QUAINT CLOTHES

Col. William M. Fairman, of Punxsutawney, Pa., a delegate, attracted much attention in the lobby of the Jefferson hotel this morning on account of the cut of his coat and the style of his straw hat. Col. Fairman, who is 80 years old, and who says that nearly all of his left side was shot away by Confederate soldiers during the Civil war, wore a homespun woolen suit of a very quaint pattern. The coat was square cut, and reached his knees. The lapels were six inches wide. He wore a standing collar which did not touch his neck at all. His straw hat was made of a very coarse braid and had a high crown, and slightly up-curved brim.

"A lot of us Democrats are unfortunately growing old," Col. Fairbank remarked, "but the worst thing about it is that our capacity for consuming liquor seems to be diminishing at an alarmingly rapid rate."

At that hour—10 a. m., hundreds of delegates and visitors were in the lobby of the hotel, and there was not a customer in the bar. — St. Louis Times.

Pity the Man Who Doesn't Advertise!

By BREXEN.

"I have an established business. I don't require advertising."

That is the answer of some self satisfied man to a request for advertising. Meanwhile his progressive neighbor is using printer's ink lavishly.

The result is obvious. It's only a question of time. The self satisfied business man soon finds his trade disappearing. His progressive neighbor goes ahead with leaps and bounds. Every business, no matter how firmly established, needs advertising. If it isn't advertised it soon will be in a rut. Don't get in a rut. Advertise.

Little Talks On Health and Hygiene

vegetables are a necessary part of
the diet. Many of these are more
appetizing when eaten raw. Bessies,
radishes, onions and salads appear
regularly on the menu at this season
and have their value as food.

Care should be exercised in the
preparation and serving of green
foods, however, as they are subject
to much handling between the garden and the table. Unless the hands
through which they pass are absolutely clean they are more or less contaminated. In many market gardens the gathering of the produce is
entrusted to a class of labor which is
not any too cleanly and care is seldom exercised to insure cleanliness.

Food exposed for sale in markets
is often subject to indiscriminate
handling by prospective purchasers
and is seldom properly protected
from dust and dirt.

As a protection berries and food-
stuffs eaten raw should be thoroughly washed before being served. It is
far better to risk a slight impair-
ment of the flavor than to chance
eating unclean foods.

Nightsoil should not be used for
fertilizing gardens from which the
produce may be eaten raw. Water-
cress should not be gathered from
streams which are polluted with se-
wage. Many cases are on record
where typhoid fever has resulted
from failure to observe this precaution.

Proper Way to Keep Milk In The Home During Hot Summer Months

Washington, June 27.—The 3 "C's"
(United Press)—The three "C's" for
proper care of milk in the home,
according to the dairy specialists of
the U. S. Department of Agriculture
are:

Keep milk Clean, Cold, Covered.

Milk is highly perishable food and
the length of time it will remain
sweet and safe, especially for children, depends, the specialists say, al-
most entirely upon the constant care
it receives from cow to consumer.
Milk passes through three agencies
the producer, the dealer and the consumer. If the first two have done
their part, clean, safe milk will be
delivered, thoroughly chilled, to the
consumer. The consumer's responsibility begins the moment the milk is
delivered at his doorstep.

Because milk poured from vessel
to vessel on the street is very liable
to contamination, from dust, manure
particles and germs, milk is best delivered in capped bottles. If bottled milk can not be obtained, the
housewife should try to have some-
one in the family receive the milk in
a clean, sealed utensil, cover it instantly, and put it without delay into
the refrigerator, or the coldest available place. Under no circumstances
pan be left out on the porch to receive bulk milk. The vessel, both
before and after the milk is poured
into it, is accessible to flies and collects particles of dust and dirt.

Even in the case of bottled milk,
however, the consumer must see that
for a moment longer than is necessary. Milk should be delivered and
kept at a temperature of 50 degrees
or lower—the colder the better. At
such temperatures bacteria develop
very slowly and milk undergoes little change until consumed. A slight
rise in temperature above this point,
however, permits bacteria to multiply
rapidly and brings about rapid de-

render it unfit for ordinary use and
make it highly dangerous for babies
and little children. For this reason
bottled or other milk should not be allowed to remain in a warm place,
as on a sunny porch or in a hot kitchen, for a moment longer than is
necessary.

Timely Advice to Auto Owners

There is a knock in my car. I have
just taken up the bearings, but the
noise still continues. It seems to be in the front part of the motor and has a
metallic sound like a loose connecting
rod. Could you suggest where this might be?

If the bearings are all in good shape
look for the trouble at the piston of
one of the front cylinders. It might be
a piston slap due to the piston being
under size, or it might be in the wrist
pin bearing. Possibly there is a broken
ring on one of the front pistons; but,
at any rate, examine them to deter-
mine just where it is. It would be difficult to lay the trouble at any point
without examination of the engine.

I am having trouble with the differential of my car. Have broken two
drive shaft pinions, two drive or ring
gears and three differential cross pin-
ions, also the differential thrust bearing balls and ball races are giving
trouble. The differential makes a grinding noise when running. Would
tightening the wheels on the axle
cause any part of this trouble? Please
tell me how to assemble and adjust
these parts to eliminate the trouble.

It is imperative when installing a
new differential that you see that it
runs free in the axle housing and that there is no binding whatever. If the differential is too tight it will have a tendency to cut out the races. To
be well to cut out a portion of the
housing behind the ball race so that
the differential will turn freely.

The grinding noise is caused by the
pinion and the ring gear meshing too
tight. It is practical at all times to make sure that there is a certain
amount of back lash in the pinion gear,
and, further, one must make sure that
the pinion gear is meshing level with
the ring gear.

It is impossible to tighten the wheels
too tight to cause any of the trouble
you are having, as the axle shafts are
tapered and on this account the wheel
is drawn up on the taper.

What is the maximum speed of two
cycle engines?

The maximum speed of the two
cycle may be expected to be lower
than that of the four cycle, due to the
fact that with the increase in speed
more of the dead gas will remain in
the cylinder.

I have a car which I wish to convert
into a speedster. Can you tell me
what changes are necessary to secure
the most speed out of it?

The weight distribution over the
front and rear wheels should be made
as nearly equal as possible, so that the
car will hold the track and take the
turns without upsetting. This rule is followed out in designing cars for
racing. The center of gravity is made
as low as possible to accomplish the
same end. The motor should be balanced by making the reciprocating
parts as nearly equal as possible in
weight. The crankshaft must be perfectly balanced, the connecting rods to
weigh the same—in fact, there must
not be more work thrust upon one cylinder than upon another. By reducing
the body weight the car will give
greater speed. The new body should be
such that wind resistance is reduced
considerably. For this is one great factor in speed. By reducing the gear ratio still greater speed may be obtained, but the life of the car would be
short with a gear ratio of less than
three and one-half to one.

Is there such a thing as an internal
combustion rotary engine?
There has been a great deal of experimenting in the way of internal
combustion rotary engines and gasoline turbines. In fact, there are dozens
of them on file in the patent office. So
far none of them has been a financial
success.
